Kingdom of Flesh & Spirit

Phillip Mullins · Series: Islam

INTRODUCTION

- But when it comes to religious matters, when it comes to matters connected to our soul and our spiritual destiny, we must make decisions.
- Jesus taught the exclusive nature of Christianity that to believe in him was the only way to be right with God.
- Christianity is exclusive, and Islam is exclusive, and neither one of those religions, in their original form, allow for religious pluralism.

1 The Prophethood of Jesus Versus the Prophethood of Muhammad

John 10:37

- If I do not do the works of my Father, do not believe me. But if I do, though you do not believe me, believe the works.
- He did not ask people to merely take his word for it, that he was speaking the message of God.
- Muslims teach that the main sign and the sign of Muhammad was the Quran itself.
- Mohammed did not perform signs to prove that he was a prophet of God. There is no indication of miracles in the life of Muhammad.
- When he spoke this message, the message was not accompanied by signs, miracles, wonders, or any other kind of divine or miraculous work.
- Jesus the prophet said, Don't disbelieve me. Look at the works that I do and see that the Father is in me.

2 The Nature of the Kingdoms

- But a more conclusive question is what kind of kingdoms are they?
- Judaism, in its original form in the Old Testament, was a civil and a religious system.
- It was God commanding them to carry out these military actions, and when they were carrying them out, they were carrying them out mostly against the Canaanites or other nations who were ungodly.
- The Bible tells us in the Old Testament that it was God's judgment upon these people to use the Israelites to punish them.
- It's because Israel in the Old Testament was a physical nation, and it was involved in this earthly struggle of property and land and goods and everything else.
- Israel was a means to an end. It was a physical nation that God used to carry out his ultimate purpose.
