The Good News About Raising Kids (2001 Mar 4)

David Banning · Series: Family

INTRODUCTION

- There's joy at a moment like that I don't know if you can put into words.
- When I listen to parents talk today, the emotion that I hear them talk about most frequently is fear.
- I believe godly parents have every reason to be optimistic about the work that they are doing and to believe that we can succeed.

1 We Can Do It

- The first piece of good news we need to consider is that we can do it.
- We can raise kids that turn out right, and we can do that in spite of the depravity and corruption of our culture.
- We can bring our children up right and we can teach them the right things.
- We can succeed at the mission we've undertaken.

2 What We Mean by Turning Out Right

- It's important right here at the very outset of this series to define what we mean when we talk about our kids turning out right.
- Turning out right means more than just raising our children to be good citizens.
